Matthew 6:1-8

There are five parts of me and (probably) you: a part of myself that I know and like and let my friends see; a part of myself that I know and dislike and try to keep hidden; a part of myself that I do not know but my friends do (especially my mother and my best friend); a part of myself that neither I nor my friends know but only God knows—he made me in his image and knows who I might become. And there is a fifth part of myself that only God and I know: a hidden part with God.

Today Jesus is concerned with this hidden part— this is where God searches our hearts. For Him, this is vital to who we are. Of course, culture finds that hard to believe. Image seems everything. Play to your strengths and project your best image—"Hey, how do I look?"

With Jesus, it's different. You will have noticed two sections in the scripture. Both have a similar structure and use the same kind of language—first, about the way I do "acts of righteousness"; secondly, about the way I pray. Jesus' teaching follows a pattern here. He makes certain assumptions, gives serious warning, and then gives practical advice.

In-person Congregational Worship Service continues today. Members and visitors who intend to worship at the church premises on Sunday can walk in without registering in advance. Everyone must observe the Safe Management Measures such as temperature taking and check in and out with SafeEntry. Alternatively, you may join us in worship by going to www.ppcoc.org and clicking on "Live Streams" under the Resources tab. You can also click on the Donate tab to find out how to make bank transfers to the church for REBUILDING PLEDGES and offerings.

BUT ENCOURAGING ONE ANOTHER

PPCOC Annual Advance - 2 April 2021 📅 9 AM – 12 PM

Theme: Rebuilding Our Faith

Message: Strengthening the Family Means Strengthening the Church

Bro. Terry Harrison and the young adult leaders promise to deliver the Annual Advance message and activities differently. The message interlaced with relationship building activities will be interactive and engaging. In order to achieve that, they would like to see brethren gather in various homes, yet virtually connected as a church.

After a year of much isolation, I know that it is a challenge to gather ourselves physically. Why do some changes happen quickly while other changes occur slowly? We tend to rely heavily on technology, media, or programs, but there is a better way: person-to-person contact and relationship-building.

Atul Gawande writes that in the era of iPhone, Facebook, and Twitter, we want frictionless, "turnkey" solutions to the major difficulties of the world—hunger, disease, poverty even covid-19. We prefer instructional videos to teachers, drones to troops, incentives to institutions. People and institutions can feel messy and backwards. But technology and programs are not enough. Mass media can introduce a new idea to people. But people follow the lead of other people they know and trust when they decide whether to change.

This is something that salespeople understand well. Gwande once asked a pharmaceutical rep how he persuaded doctors—who are notoriously stubborn—to adopt a new medicine. Evidence is not remotely enough, he said you must apply "the rule of seven touches." Personally "touch" the doctors seven times, and they will come to know you; and, if they trust you, they will change. That's why he stocked the doctor's closets with free samples in person. Then he could poke his head around the corner and ask, "So how did your son Benny's soccer game go?" Eventually, this can become "Have you seen this study on our new drug? How about giving it a try?" As the rep had recognized, human interaction is the key force in overcoming resistance and speeding change.

Hence, I would like to encourage you to sign up quickly for this Annual Advance on Good Friday!
