Today I want to look with you at the final days of the ministry of Paul. As we meet him towards the end of his life, we know that Paul is not slowing down. Paul is not going on cruise control. You never hear the apostle Paul talk like it is even possible to retire from one's mission as a disciple of Jesus Christ.

I have a question: friend, what are you focusing on as you finish the race?

- One day we are all going to kick the bucket. Nobody gets a pass. We're all going down. So what do you want to complete before your journey here is done?
- Our culture says that we should put more into our bucket. The Bible tells us that life is about what gets poured out of our bucket.

What is Paul's bucket list? What if Paul's list became our list?

What if we renewed our commitment today?

1 Peter 3:1-7

Marriage is one of the most important human relationships. No wonder Peter spends a few sentences to help his readers with this sometimes difficult institution.

But Peter's thoughts haven't been confined to marriage. He is very concerned about all kinds of relationships in society -- with the government, with masters and slaves, and with marriage. He knows that if Christians are perceived as societal rebels and radicals, their message won't be heard and the Christian faith won't grow.

Anointing of New Minister

Proceedings:

- Introduction by Lead Minister
- New Minister's address (the story of his calling, vision for PPCOC, and plans for the rest of 2021)
- Elders lead in congregational prayer over the new Minister

In Jewish tradition, certain people were called to special roles, such as kings, priests, and prophets. They were all publicly anointed with oil as a sign that they were consecrated for their special role: they were God's representatives to Israel and vice versa.

Through the anointing of oil, the Spirit of God fills the individual with divine power to perform their sacred role. We want to welcome John Lim to full-time ministry in PPCOC after four years of training at Harding University. We want to publicly affirm the unique calling that God has placed on him.

On 4 July, we will hold a special ceremony after the regular service to dedicate him to God and "anoint" him with the Holy Spirit. Let us celebrate together as one of our own answers to God's call to ministry!

PPCOC YA CAMP 2021

Your Best Self God Calls You to Be

Things the church needs to talk about

The Young Adults Camp 2021 will be held from 7-8 August. Come and join us on a journey to become Our Best Self that God Calls Us to Be. We will also take a side trip to explore an issue not often discussed in church.

All Young Adults are invited to register using the QR Code below or the invitation sent through WhatsApp or Telegram. We are planning to hold the camp online via Zoom, though there may be changes according to prevailing guidelines.

For more information, please contact either Bryan Poon or Jeremy Tng. We look forward to seeing you there!

To work with COC related ladies groups inside and outside UK to deliver, co-host events and activities to support and build up ladies in Christ

Those who are interested please WhatsApp Beng Chuan, Tan @ (65) 96393008

DOCUK provides necessary support to enable every Christian lady to experience a life-changing relationship with Christ and the brethren. They hope to connect ladies within the church community as they pursue a closer relationship with Christ.

DOCUK will be hosting events and activities that address the spiritual, emotional, and mental needs of ladies and promote fellowship. These are safe spaces where women can share challenges and needs in a non-judgmental and supportive climate.

With the widespread use of Zoom during the pandemic, they are inviting the global church, including us in Singapore, to join in their fellowship and activities.

For any sisters who are interested to participate or want more information, do contact Bro. Beng Chuan via WhatsApp (96393008).

Praise God for the unity of the global church and the growth of such efforts!

Family News, Concerns & Prayers

We rejoice over the baptism of Melanie Lim, daughter of Ting Jwee and Li Mei. Melanie obeyed the Lord and was baptized on 18 June 2021 by Keith Gant. Praise the Lord!

We congratulate Bryan Lim and Chen Ting on the birth of their baby boy Levi on 18 June! The Bryan Lims thank the church and prayer warriors for their prayers over mother and baby. They were down with fever and are now discharged from the hospital having recovered. Thanks be to God for safe-guarding mother and child!

The Bad Thing about More

You must not covet. You must not covet. Exodus 20:17

Having too much is rarely a recipe for peace, though it's tempting to think so. When you have lots of stuff, you need to spend lots of time paying for it and lots of time taking care of it. Our many possessions can tie us down, making it difficult to respond to opportunities God gives. Oddly, having too much often makes us want to have even more.

In his classic book on the Sabbath, Abraham Joshua Heschel points out that when modern people want to emphasize something in print, we often underline or italicize words. The Bible and other forms of ancient literature used a different tactic—repeating words within the text, as if to say, "Listen and listen up!" Deuteronomy 16:20, for instance, says, "Justice, and only justice, you shall pursue, so that you may live and occupy the land that the Lord your God is giving you". Isaiah 40:1 declares, "'Comfort, comfort my people,' says your God."

Heschel points out that only one of the Ten Commandments is proclaimed twice, and that's the last one, which goes like this: "Do not covet your neighbor's house. Do not covet your neighbor's wife, male or female servant, ox or donkey, or anything else your neighbor owns" (Exodus 20:17).

By emphasizing the command, God puts a double fence around our tendency to want more, especially if the more that we want belongs to someone else.

You may not feel wealthy compared to those around you, but most of us who are living in the affluent West are rich compared to the rest of the world. No matter how much we have, all of us can fall into the temptation of coveting what we don't have. If you find yourself stressed out by everything you own, ask God for help and wisdom to begin paring things down. Then listen and listen up so you can experience more of God's peace in your life!

Father, I have so many things I don't need and don't even use. Give me the desire to live a life of greater simplicity.

Important Notice

We love seeing family members and friends responding to the gospel in obedience to Christ in baptism!

Do notify the church minister before any baptism service so that we can brief you on the safe management measures. Your cooperation will be kindly appreciated.
