Sunday Morning Worship

Filled With Joy | 10 December 2023

Our theme song for this worship series has been “Joy Has Dawned.” The title refers to the arrival of the Lord Jesus to earth in human flesh, an event of history marked by great joy and wonder. I (John) am most fascinated however by the word “dawned.”

Technically, “dawn” just refers to a time of day when the sun begins to rise, usually between 6am and 7am here in Singapore. For many of us, this time means the hectic business of getting our families and children ready for the day, or the jostle with the morning rush hour crowd. Perhaps “dawn” simply reminds us of the time we could be resting in bed if not for life’s demands.

There was, however, a time when “dawn” marked the beginning of a new cycle of life, when light at last dispels the night and awakens hope and life in the human soul. What seemed like unending, deathly darkness gives way to the dazzling radiance of light. What a powerful description of Jesus Christ!
